CHARGE TO GRAND JURY

Judge Ingram's Ringing Words in Manchester.

THE KILLING OF TAYLOR

Jury Charged to Look Into it, and the Law Olearly Laid Down for Their Guidance-Will Meet Next Thursday.

In the Corporation Court of Manchester vesterday, Judge John H. Ingram delivered to the special grand jury summoned to sit in the investigation of the shooting of Luther Taylor and certain other matters specified, a lengthy and werful charge, dealing in full with the law touching the matters in hand.

men to the charge. After it was read the jury adjourned to meet Thursday, when the investigation will begin. The gentle-Nunnally, A. F. Holt, George S. Grizzard, J. B. Clopton, Charles Burkert, J. D. Mathews, F. B. Dunford, W. W. Pool, A. J. Daffren, O. J. Markham, R. T. Cogbill. men who will sit in the cases are as fol

The Charge.

After touching in general upon the powers of grand jurors, Judge Ingram goes straight to the questions involved—the strike, and the conditions and happenings growing out of it. A strike has existed, as you know," he says, "for several weeks past, between the former employes of the street car company, which operates cars along our streets, and the company. With the merits of that controversy you have nothing to do as jurors. As to whether you ride or walk is a matter of individual judgment for you to decide. As to whether any other person rides or walks is a matter for him to decide. He has a right to do either that to him seems best. The street car company has a lawful right to run its cars in a lawful manner along and over the streets of this city, and is entitled to the full protection of the laws of this Commonwealth in so doing, and it is the duty of the city and State governments to see that none of their property rights are taken from them by interference with their cars or agents in an unlawful manner by any person or persons, to the disturbance of the commonwealth."

As further bearing upon the right of the citizens to ride on the cars of the com-persons, to the disturbance of the peace of the Commonwealth."

As further bearing upon the right of the citizens to ride on the cars of the company without let or hindrance, and the right of the company to operate its cars, Judge Ingram quotes the language of Judge Witt, of the Hustings Court of Richmond. This quotation deals with the laws of criminal conspiracy and boycotts, and, as will be recalled, declares that the law, as laid down by the Supreme Court, is in offect that every attempt, by force, threat or intimidation, to deter or control an employer in the determination of what persons he will employ what wages he will adopt, is an unlawful act, and all combinations for such purposes are unlawful, and the parties therefor are liable to criminal prosecution. It is enough if the persons combine together to injure the business of another. No evert act is necessary to be committed. The combination for the unlawful purpose is the crime.

Present the Offender.

"Gentlemen of the jury," says Judge ngram, after citing this authority, "if nis law has been violated it will be yout uty, upon proper proof, to present the cffender."

Proceeding, Judge Ingram also cells attration to the statute dealing with the obstruction of tracks of railways, street carlines, etc. "This wholesome statute." he declares. "has a two-fold aspect and is intended not only for the protection and preservation of the property of railroads, canal companies and street car companies, in which both the labor and wealth of our country are interested, but it is intended for a higher purpose—the protection of the lives and limbs of our fellow-citizens, the passengers and travelers on our transportation lines. The penalties imposed by this stateute are severe, but not one whit severer than they should be. The man or men who will deliberately inflict rerious bodily harm upon innocent persons, against whom they have no personal grievance, belong, in my judgment, to that class who are designed in the law as hostes humani generis, or public enemies, whose punishment should be as sure and certain as laws can make it."

The Taylor Sho ting. Proceeding, Judge Ingram also calls at-

The Taylor Shorting.

The Taylor Shorting.

Thereafter the greater portion of the charge is taken up with a reference to the Taylor shooting. The tenor of the address throughout indicates that the judge is of opinion that the shooting under the extraordinary circumstances under which it occurred was justifiable, or at least excusable. He cites the recent case of Wadsworth vs. Shortall, decided by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which

It matters not whether you have been sick a few months or ten years, our Natural Mineral Water Remedy will restore your health. Physicians indorse what we say and use it in their practice, because it produces results which hand-compounded drugs do not.

Remember you do not have to spend your money in railroad fare and board, but stay at home and take a more thorough Mineral Water Treatment than if you visited the springs. One dose of the Concentrated Water has more minerals than a quart of the Natural Water, and this is why results are better. Such diseases as Indigestion, Rheumatism, Stomach and Bovel Troubles, Catarrh, Female Complaints, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Torpid Liver, Scrofula and all Blood Diseases are cured readily with our Concentrated Water. decision was printed in full in this paper a few days ago. In this case, which was remarkably similar to that of the Taydor affair, the soldier who shot Durham was held guiltless. After discussing the Pennsylvania case at length, Judge Ingram applies the law to the Manchestrappening. He eays:

"Such is the law as laid down by the highest court of Pennsylvania. The same law obtains in Virginia by virtue not only of the statutory declarations of our State Legislature in its Code, to which I have alluded, but because it was the law at common law, and in no way does section III of our Bill of Rights change it.

"The militia of Virginia are a part of our system of State government as much so as you are, or this court is, and are equally entitled to the protection of its laws. They were called out over here by the Governor, at the request of the Mayor, acting in his official capacity and his was the discretion, and a serious and important one its was, and it does Mayor, acting in his official capacity and Fis was the discretion, and a serious and important one it was, and it doe not come within your privileges or the court's to censure him for it. The presumption is that he acted wisely with the lights before him. And if he thought that the public peace required it, it was his duty to act, regardless of whom it offended.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a nounce of presention lis worth a nounce of cure in preserving the peace of his Commonwealth and city. Both the Mayor and the sheriff, on the 2d of July gave explicit orders to Colonel George Wayne Anderson, commanding the troop in the field, not only to protect the property of the Virginia Passenger and Power Company, but he was expressly ordered to disperse all crowds and mobs on the horoughfares and to arrest all persons guilty of any oreach of the peace, violence, assault, destruction of stopping to withdraw therefrom as well as all persons guilty of any oreach of the peace, violence, assault, destruction of stopping to use a breach of the peace and generally to use such measures and reporty and to preserve the peace and spinly of the Commonwealth in the city Manchester and county of Chester 161d.

The colonel commanding issued order which applied to Manchester, as well as Richmond in regard to firing and making arrests, which orders will be produced before you. They were full and clear.

The State Law.

The State Law.

In this connection I desire to state to you that by section 333, acts of Assembly 1999-1900, ch. 1131, approved March 7, 1900 it is provided that. "The Virginia volumeers shall in addition to the provisions of this chapter, be governed by such articles of war as may be in force for the government of the army or the navy of the United States, and as may be designated by the Governor in general orders, and also by such regulations issued by the commander-in-chief as shall not be in conflict with the laws of the State, and of the United States."

And as Mr. Justice Brown said in the case of the United States vs. Clark, 31, Federal Reporter, p. 113, "The articles of war are, in fact, a military code of draconic severity and authorize harsh punishments for offenses which seem to be of a trivial nature.

"Thus by the articles of war all the following crimes are punishable by death or such other punishment as a courf-martial may direct: Striking a superior officer; drawing or lifting up a weapon or offering violence against, or disobeying any lawful command."

The oridence in this case and all of it, should be carefully considered by you in the light of the common and statue law, which I have stated to you for your guidance and control. And it is for you to say whether or not in this case you will present or indict.

Put yourselves in the place of the millitia called out as they were, to suppress violence and preserve the peace of this city, and say whether they acted as reasonable men would have done with such orders, general or special, in the interest of peace and to put down rioting in firing upon a nescaping prisoner charged with disorderly conduct, along with three others as the evidence will appear to you.

George and some other lads were out in one of the boats used for bringing sand to the shore. Accidentally the little fellow lost his balance and fell overboard. Every effort was made by his juvenile associates to save him from a grave beneath the swift and middy waters but to no avail. It was probably eight minutes before his body was taken form the river; and the ambulance surgeons worked on him faithfully, but he was beyond help. Caroner Taylor, viewed he remains, investigated the circumstances of his falling overboard and consided that drowning was accidental, and, therefore, an inquest was unnecessary. Funeral Director Thos. A. Reddin prepared the little body for burial, and the funeral will take place from Sacred Heart Church this morning at 10 o'clock. n one of the boats used for bringing sand

Mr. W. L. Royall Files His Declaration.

ATTEMPTED COERCION

This is Charged in the Paper Against the Bricklayers' Union-Says Latter Maliciously Undertook to Inlure Business of Plaintiffs.

Mr. William L. Royall yesterday filed his declaration in the Law and Equity Court in the Sitterding boycott case. Bewhich is a very interesting one. It goes on to say that there is a bricklayers union in the city of Richmond, consisting of about 150 white bricklayers, who are all the white bricklayers in the city. These will not work with colored bricklayers, and if any white ones come from abroad, they are forced to join the union, so that these 150 men absolutely dominate that these iso men assolutely nominate the building business of Richmond. The paper then tells of the street car strike, and of Sitterding being president of the street car company, he being also vice-president of the Sitterding-Carneal-Davis Company, and a large stockholder in the same.

Company, and a large stockholder in the same.

SYMPATHY CHARGED.

It then states that the bricklayers are in thorough sympathy with the striking street car men, and that the said bricklayers maliciously conspired together to do the plaintiffs a wanton injury, which was accomplished thus: Each of the defendants simultaneously notified the contractor for whom he was working, that if the contractor used any of Sitterding's lime, he would quit work, knowing very well that if he did the contractor would be unable to get other bricklayers and would therefore be unable to perform his contract, and would probably be ruined; that the purpose of this was to intimidate Sitterding and make him use his influence with the street car company to make it yield to the demands of the strikers. That their malicious and unlawful action has caused the contractors to stop buying lime and other huilding material from the said plaintiffs, and have prevented the sale of much of the material, which the contractors would otherwise have bought.

Gist of the Case.

Gist of the Case.

The pith of the case perhaps is completely stated in the following passages taken from the declaration:

"So that the case is that, the defendants having deliberately created a situation that put it within their power by the dishonest exercise of a natural right to coerce the employing contractors herein named into becoming unwilling instruments for inflicting an injury upon the plaintiff; took unfair advantage of the situation so created by them and dishonestly exercised their natural right so as to coerce the said employing contractors into unwilling inflicting a wanton injury upon the plaintiff which proposed injury had here conceived and plotted by the defendants in malice towards the plaintiff, by all of which wanton, malicious and unlawful actings and doings of the said defendants the said plaintiff is damaged $10,000."

MUST GET LICENSES

Penalty Assessed for Failure to Do So Before August 1st.
The collector of internal revenue advises that a great many of the special revenue tax-payers have failed to take out their licenses for the current fiscal year, and that unless they do so in the year, and that unless they do so in the next few days, they will be liable for the fifty per cent, penalty, in addition to the full amount of the tax. This penalty is imposed by statute and its imposition is imposed by statute and its imposition is imandatory on the collector, who has no choice, but to enforce the regulation. Only about 360 licenses for retail ilquor dealers have been issued this year by the local office, compared with about 660 last year. Unless those who have overslooked the matter, attend to it before August 1st, the penalty will be added.

Mr. Thomas F. Meany, cashier of the revenue department, accompanied by Mrs. Meany, will leave about August 1st for the Catskill Mountains, where he will spend a brief vacation.

Chief Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue R. O. Deyer has gone to Southampton county on official business for a few days.

Conditions in the local postoffice have been greatly improved since the removal of the money order and registry departments to the annex. The force in that department are now beginning to feel at home in the new quarters.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Supplementary to a bill filed in the Superior Court by the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply Company, alleging that the Chicago Teamsters' Union and its officers have been indulging in threats and using unlawful means to prevent the company from shipping its goods, Judge Holdom to-day granted an injunction restraining Albert Young, president of the Teamst is 'Union' and the other officers and members from interfering with the company's transaction of business. The Illinois Manufacturers' Association and the Anti-Boyott League have united with the Kellogs Company to force the issue with the teamsters, and it is intended, if the conspiracy charges can be proved, to go before the grand jury and seek the indictment of the labor leaders.

Justice Crutchfield had his usual docket yesterday. Drunks and disorders, mental and physical, steadled themselves up to the bargain counter of Justice for such as His Honor had to give.

No cases of a very serious nature came before the Dispenser, but the drunks snowed in pretty heavily.

If there is one thing Justice John will not stand it is "sass."

James Coles had been given six months for being disorderly. As he was returning to the nen he mumbled:

"This is a place to get justice. I should think not." or "lit."

Justice John called him back and gave him six months more, making a year in all, and asked if he had any more to say, if so, he would see if anything else could be done for him.
